Allied Forces In Syria Set To Take Damascus Tonight

British and Free French Encounter Little Opposition; Hear Nazi Airmen Have Been Ordered To Leave

(By Associated Press.)

CAIRO, Egypt, June 10.—Free French headquarters announced tonight that its forces in Syria were near Damascus, capital of the mandate, and other French sources here said they were expected to enter the city tonight or early tomorrow.

LONDON, June 10.—British columns driving into Syria were less than 10 miles from ancient Damascus last night and were advancing smoothly, authoritative British sources asserted today.

The Middle East command likewise said that the penetration was "proceeding smoothly" and that the prevailing impression was that "Arab reaction to our arrival is favorable."

This tended further to brighten British hopes, expressed when the Allied forces moved into Syria Sunday, that the campaign would be more political than military in aspect.

British spokesman said Allied casualties had been slight and there was no official indication that heavy resistance had been encountered.

"Taken opposition" was said to have been offered at several points by French troops, but they were reported to have surrendered or withdrawn under swift thrusts of mechanized forces.

Units of the British Mediterranean fleet, cooperating with land forces, were declared to be off the Lebanese coast—a heavy menace to any French attempt to hold Beirut.

At the rate the British and their Free French allies have been advancing since they launched their drive at dawn Sunday, military circles said early today they should not be more than 30 miles from both Damascus and Beirut—perhaps less.

Nazi "Chutists" Captured
Official versions of the Allied drive made no mention of contact with German troops, which have been reported filtering into the French mandates for several weeks, but unofficial sources yesterday said that 183 Nazi parachutists had been captured.

Authoritative quarters in Ankara, Turkey, said the German high command had ordered Nazi airmen and army specialists reportedly scattered throughout Syria to withdraw from the country.

British observers suggested that heavy losses suffered by the Germans in the conquest of Crete and the unexpected strength of the British-Free French push into Syria and Lebanon might have been responsible for the reported German decision.

They said that abandonment of Syria, however, probably would be accomplished by a German offensive gesture in a new direction—perhaps a renewal of the drive from Libya into Egypt.

U.S. AWAITING MORE DATA ON SHIP SINKING

American Merchantman Said to Have Been Torpedoed by U-Boat

35 OF 46 ABOARD REPORTED MISSING

Eleven Sailors Saved, Says Message from Ambassador at Rio de Janeiro

By WALDEMAR LUCIO PEREIRA, Captain, The Brazilian Steamer Osorio. Copyright, 1941, By The Associated Press.)

ABOARD THE S. S. OSORIO, June 10.—On June 8, at 9 o'clock in the evening in latitude 0.46 north and longitude 37.37 west, I rescued 11 survivors in one lifeboat of the North American ship Robin Moor, which was torpedoed May 21 at the position latitude 6.15 north longitude 25.30 west.

Their names are John J. Bannigan, Karl Nilson, Virgil Sanderlin, William S. Cary, Peter Buss, Don-

NEW YORK, June 10.—Two Ohioans were listed as crew members of the S. S. Robin Moor, an American steamer which the navy said had been reported sunk in the south Atlantic by a submarine. They were Fred Hayes, Cleveland, an able seaman, and Peter Danielak, Akron, water tender.

ald Schableise, H. O. Rice, R. Carlisle, Antonio Santos, Hugh Murphy and P. C. Eccles.

(In New York City, officials of the Robin line said the survivors included one passenger and 10 crew members. They were listed in line records as follows:

(P. C. Eccles, British-born banker, a passenger.)

(John J. Bannigan, New York City, third officer; William Cary, Delmar, N. Y., boatswain; Hollie O. Rice, Bowie, Tex., able seaman; Donald Schableise, Yonkers, able seaman; Peter A. Buss, Bethlehem, Pa., able seaman; Karl Nilson, Baltimore, first assistant engineer; Virgil C. Sanderlin, New York, third assistant engineer; Richard Carlisle, Maywood, Calif., fireman; Antonio Santos, Newark, N. J., chief cook; and Hugh T. Murphy, East Boston, Mass., messman.)

The saved members of the crew declared there were three more lifeboats with 28 members of the crew and seven passengers, including three women and one child.

The commander of the Brazilian ship Tamandare, which I also requested to investigate, said that about 1 p. m. yesterday he found pieces of baggage consisting of one suitcase and children's toys.

Unfortunately nothing more has been found up to now. "This radio-

BLAKE EXPECTED TO RETAIN POST

Bricker Also Preparing to Name Director of Education

COLUMBUS, June 10.—Gov. John W. Bricker will have plenty of candidates when he is ready to select a director of education to replace E. N. Dietrich of Bucyrus, whose term expires Aug. 15.

Don Power, the governor's executive secretary, said today that from 75 to 100 applications for the position, which is good for four years and pays a salary of $6,500, now are on file and others still are coming at the rate of two and three a day.

With appointment of Dietrich's successor, several other positions in the department, including an assistant director, are expected to be filled.

Dietrich is a Democratic hold-over from the administration of former Gov. Martin L. Davey. The executive office also indicated that Will T. Blake of East Liverpool probably will be re-appointed as a member of the state industrial commission, notwithstanding there has been some protest by local labor organizations against him. Blake is the labor representative on the commission.

In contrast to the protests, several labor organizations have urged Blake's re-appointment, it was authoritatively stated.

Blake's term expires on June 30. He is a Republican.

As United States Soldiers Opened Up Struck Aviation Plant

Under orders of President Roosevelt, the United States army yesterday took over the North American Aviation company plant at Inglewood, Calif., where a strike has halted production on some $200,000,000 worth of defense orders. With fixed bayonets, the soldiers moved on the plant and cleared the entire area of pickets and strikers.

RAIL WORKERS ASK INCREASE

Seek Action Within Month: "Unreasonable," Say Executives

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, June 10.—Representatives of 1,150,000 organized railroad workers formally demanded wage increases of the carried management today.

The general chairman of each union notified each railroad with which his group has an agreement of the union's decision to open existing agreements "for the purpose of making such changes in wages as may be necessary" to provide for the higher scales asked, and to make "such changes" effective July 10.

That was the unions' politely official way of saying "we demand more pay within a month."

"Unreasonable," Say Executives
An indication of management reaction came last week when the Western Association of Railway Executives described the demands as "unreasonable."

Under legal and customary procedure, the unions' formal demands would be followed within 30 days by conferences between spokesmen for individual railroads and unions. Such conferences could be consolidated on a regional or national basis.

Duce Flaunts Power of Axis, Dares U.S. To Declare War

Intervention Would Mean Dictatorship, Says Mussolini In War Anniversary Speech

(By Associated Press.)

ROME, June 10.—Premier Mussolini declared today that the United States was at war "de facto"—in fact—and virtually defied her to declare war against the Axis.

United States intervention in the war would result in a totalitarian dictatorship in the United States, the premier declared at a solemn, full dress session of the Chamber of Deputies and the Senate on the first anniversary of Italy's declaration of war.

He referred to possible United States intervention in these words: "If Spain and Turkey remain out of the war, there is one trans-oceanic state which promises to enter it."

Envoys from countries in the German-Japanese-Italian tripartite pact heard Mussolini's speech, but conspicuously absent from the diplomatic gallery was United States Ambassador William Phillips.

As Il Duce spoke, his words were carried by loudspeakers to crowds under a hot sun in public squares and by radio to the whole nation. Stores closed for the occasion.

"It should be known that American intervention does not bother us excessively," Mussolini declared in his 50-minute speech.

"An explicit declaration of war would not modify the actual situation, which is one of de facto war if not de jure (formally)."

"American intervention, even completely employed, would be too late, and if not late would not change the terms of the problem."

Increasing Needs Of Defense Swell U.S. Priorities Lists

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The government put consumers tentatively on notice today that they may have to step aside until defense needs are met on a long list of everyday items, ranging from mattresses and cameras to woolen underwear and fire extinguishers.

The list included wool, cotton, flannel and other types of cloth, wool and leather gloves, motion forms, and business office equipment, medicinal chemicals, woolen and cotton-wool socks, hospital uniforms, and business office equipment such as addressing and duplicating machines.

These and other items were added yesterday to the list of "critical items" issued monthly by the priorities division of the Office of Production Management. In all, there were some 40 items, raising the total number now classified as "critical" to approximately 300.

More than any other single government document, perhaps this latest list brings home to the private citizen how widely the requirement of an all-out "total defense" program may effect the routine of his daily living.

In effect, the list is a warning to those who manufacture, sell or use these items that consumption now is near the nation's capacity to produce them.

In some cases the army or navy may be contemplating further large purchases and mandatory priorities may have to be imposed, OPM officials said.

In other cases the shortage or potential shortage may have resulted from a drop in production. Borax and boric acid, which now appear on the critical list for the first time, are scarce for this reason.

The OPM said that the shortage in these two materials—the first a cleaning agent familiar to every housewife and the second best known as an eye-wash—apparently is temporary.

Meanwhile, these two products have been put under full priority control. They are essential to defense industries because they are used in making a special glass used in radio tubes, photoelectric cells, searchlight lenses and many other needed instruments.

NAVY PUSHING SHIPBUILDING

45,000-Ton New Jersey To Be Launched In January, Ahead of Schedule

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The navy, setting the pace for private shipbuilders in the race for construction of a two-ocean fleet, expects to launch at least one of its first 45,000-ton battleships, the New Jersey, next January, about nine months ahead of schedule.

The dreadnaught, for which expanded ways had to be built and which will cost in excess of $90,000,000, is rapidly taking shape in the Philadelphia navy yard. A sister ship, the Wisconsin, is well along in an adjoining building way.

Some Washington navy officials were surprised to learn of the progress already made on the New Jersey, because her keel was laid on Sept. 16, 1940—less than eight months ago—and the construction of two smaller ships, the 35,000-ton North Carolina and Washington, required 30 months and 24 months, respectively, from keel-laying to launching.

Much of the acceleration in the New Jersey's construction was due to the so-called "speed-up" program adopted by the navy last year and for which congress appropriated millions to pay for overtime work and similar expedients. But officials emphasized that a great part of the acceleration resulted from the growing efficiency of the shipbuilding organization, which had been seriously disorganized by the inactivity of the preceding 20 years during which the United States did not build a single battleship.

The New Jersey class of capital ships will give the United States the largest and most powerful warships in the world for, while the British naval officers who sank the German battleship Bismarck expressed belief she was a 50,000-ton ship, she was officially designated as of only 35,000 tons. Fully loaded and armed, the New Jersey and her sister ships will displace considerably more than 50,000 tons, informed sources said.

RESUME PLANE OUTPUT UNDER GUNS OF ARMY

War Plane Assembly Lines Will Roll Today, Officers Pledge

MEETING IS CALLED BY STRIKE LEADERS

Pickets Are Prohibited Within Mile of Big Plant

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, June 10.—Lieut. Col. Charles W. Steinmetz reported 3,500 men had returned to work at North American Aviation, Inc., plant at 7:30 a. m. (10:30 a. m. E. S. T.) as army officers promised to start war planes rolling off production lines today.

"And more workers are coming in," Col. Steinmetz added. "Everything is happily quiet."

Three thousand five hundred soldiers guarded the plant with machine guns and bayonets.

President Roosevelt ordered it reopened yesterday as a defense emergency measure. The company, which produced 10 planes a day, has $196,000,000 in orders for the United States and British governments.

Union Meeting Called

Meantime, leaders of the CIO-United Automobile Workers local which called a strike at the plant last Thursday, demanding a closed shop and wage increases, called union members to meet at 10 a. m. (1 p. m. E. S. T.) at CIO hall.

They called the back to work movement a "flop."

Armed soldiers stood sentinel at all intersections within a mile of the plant. CIO-UAW leaders said several hundred pickets were on duty outside the lines, but no pickets were permitted within a mile radius of the plant.

Pickets shouted at workers driving toward the plant not to go in and handed out bulletins inviting them to the union meeting.

"It is vital to the future of every North American worker to attend this meeting," said the bulletin. "The back-to-work movement is a flop. Even the troops and the police intimidation have been a complete flop."

Soldiers Halt Cars

Soldiers halted every automobile as it approached their "no-man's land." Occupants were required to show identification cards and swear they were returning to work, or were returned back.

Under a promise of Lieut. Col. Charles E. Branshaw, in charge of production at the plant, night workers who did not have automobiles were taken home in army trucks after they completed their shift at 3 a. m.

Under army operation of the plant, workers will be paid by the government but just what other financial details of the huge corporation will be handled by the army had not been determined. Col. Steinmetz said an army finance officer would be sent here to take charge of all financial matters.

THE QUESTION IS NOT OUT OF ORDER

When Sir Neville Henderson was called home from Germany at the outbreak of war, having failed to secure peace as British ambassador, he was struck with the apparent hopelessness of the Germans who watched the embassy staff leave for the station. They were not vengeful, but mute. In "Failure of a Mission," he wrote that it seemed as though they did not share the purpose of the regime that had plunged Europe into another great war.

There is plenty of evidence that in France, in all the countries now conquered by Germany, and even in Great Britain there existed the same sense of futility. The people lacked a sense of purpose. From their speculation about the future they drew nothing but misgivings. They were aware of their leadership, but they suspected they were being misled. They lacked the conditions of unity. They did not believe fully in what they were doing.

To the extent that the same feeling exists in the United States and is manifest, it should be recognized and discussed. For unless Americans can find within themselves the ability to believe in a national purpose, it must happen that all attempts to effectuate a national purpose with the labor and resources of the people will be handicapped severely. It is more than the physical potentialities of America that will be needed; there must be faith in the accomplishment of which America is capable if its potentialities can be realized.

The challenge which is implicit in the efforts of aggressors is not so much to America's capacity to become a military power capable of resisting aggression as to America's capacity to become a nation with a higher purpose than the mere exercise of military strength for counter-campaigns of conquest. If there were no purpose more worthy than that, Americans would be justified in feeling that creation of military strength was an exercise in futility and an occasion for each person to make the best of a hopeless situation according to his immediate needs. Cynicism, in that state of mind, would be perfectly logical.

It is not a perplexity that can be resolved from above by speeches, pronouncements, and exhortations. It is a perplexity that each citizen must think through for himself, reaching his own conclusions and acting on them as his conscience and judgment dictate. That is the method of freedom. The most able and the most coherent bear the responsibility of presenting their views for the benefit of those who cannot find their own way, but the ultimate decision must come from within. There is no super-intelligence residing somewhere in the machinery of the state that can claim the right or the power to speak for Americans. They must decide for themselves what is worth doing as a collective action. They alone have the power to do things as free men.

Certainly the question of national purpose is not out of order. Until it has been brought into the open and settled conclusively, there can be no real national purpose. That should be done. If it is done, there can be no mistake. If 150 years of the right of self-determination have not given Americans the resources to meet the challenge of autocracy, then this country and its principles are not worthy of the confidence they have inspired in every part of the world where men aspired to a condition of freedom and the right of self-determination.

PEACE

President Roosevelt's summary dismissal of peace rumors as German propaganda reflects a widespread distrust in this country of Nazi appeasement. The distrust took root in the settlement of Munich. Americans as a whole were skeptical of Germany's good faith and subsequent events proved they were right. They knew too much about the drift of events in Europe to believe in peace.

They saw more easily than the British or the French, who had been confronted with the grisly prospect of immediate war, that Neville Chamberlain had not won "peace in our time," but only a delay in the opening of hostilities. With the benefit of perspective, they could understand more clearly than Europeans that Nazi militarism was irrevocably committed to war.

Only one kind of peace is possible under existing circumstances. German spokesmen are enthusiastic about it. They do not understand, they say, why it is not acceptable. All it would entail, as they envision it, would be for everybody to share their belief in Germany's "new order." Resistance, as they see it, is futile and costly. It would be much wiser, from the Nazi point of view, to give in without further struggle.

Their sales argument is not without prospects, nor without results. The Lindberghs, for instance, are prepared in their minds for the kind of peace Germany offers. Pierre Laval and Admiral Darlan in France have joined up. Ten thousand times 10,000 bandwagon riders in conquered areas see eye to eye with the proposition that all men are not created equal and that the only favored men are those who call themselves Aryans.

The Aryans would gladly offer peace on their terms, the terms being what they say they are, subject to change without notice. They probably will continue to do this until they have been reconstituted in the over-all fabric of human society, a process that is going to be one of the toughest jobs ever tackled by men who preferred their own integrity to cessation from war. There can be no peace with men who deny the right to enjoy peace to all who incur their disfavor. That would not be peace, but slavery.

The headlines say: "All Zamzam Survivors in Nazi France." It's a bad place to be, wherever that is.

THE STARS SAY:

For Wednesday, June 11.

AN ACTIVE and eventful day, with all energies bent in the direction of solidifying the affairs and putting them on a stable and enduring basis, should be the augury based on the predominant planetary aspects. There may be some unexpected setbacks, or opposition, with minor difficulties to encounter, but the mind will be shrewd, cold and calculating, equipped to dispose of these and as well the assistance of elders and faithful friends may be counted on. Travel may give concern and there is danger from fraud and misrepresentation, especially in connection with papers.

Those whose birthday it is may find heightened energies concentrated upon putting all affairs, both old and new, on permanent and stable bases. Matters of investment or property may come to life under this concerted attack as well as because of a subtle, shrewd and quickened mentality sustained by dependable intuitions or hunches. There may be some unforeseen opposition, with want of cooperation from certain expected sources. These, however, are balanced by very tangible aid and endorsement from worthwhile friends, elders or superiors.

A child born on this day will be energetic, industrious, progressive and stable, and possess a shrewd, subtle and calculating mind.

Guess what nations profit by jurisdictional and other strikes in American armament plants.

Getting used to entering an auto without a running board is like climbing a stair that isn't there.

CAMP LIFE IS BENEFICIAL

Particularly Good for Children, Says Doctor

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

This year as never before in the history of our country a lot of people will be in camp. About a million—more or less—adults in the armies of the United States will be in camp and if past records are any criterion, about two million children, boys and girls, will be in summer camps. Both groups will be training for the sterner duties of life; one group for a possible emergency and the other for emergencies that may rise some distance in the future.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

I have no doubt that many mothers and fathers are perplexed as to whether camp life for the "small fry," away from parental care, among strangers, will be a good or bad experience for the youngster. My experience is that it is always a good thing for them.

Good Discipline

I know of nothing more wholesome than the attitude of a summer camp for children whether they come from homes where money is plentiful or whether they come from homes of the underprivileged. In fact, I think the mingling of the two groups is one of the best parts of the experience, and I am inclined to believe that at this time the men who are in military camps are probably doing better because many of them in the period between the last war and this one have been subjected to the discipline of summer camps for youngsters.

It is not necessary today to sell the idea of the value of the discipline of camps. The less of a problem a child is at home, the more good camp does him. He learns things about human contacts, about self-reliance and about Nature that he will hardly ever learn in any other way.

What I feel parents should know is the great improvement that has been made by directors of camps to safeguard the physical health of children during their camp residence. A certain number of epidemics are bound to occur but this is merely a form of vaccination which Nature will impose upon everyone who goes out into life—a form of vaccination which medical science has no means of instituting.

Improvements in preventing epidemics which might make camping dangerous, I refer to the safeguarding of water supplies and of food. Contaminated water and contaminated milk have been the cause of the great epidemics in the past, but the causes of these are now entirely understood and all good camps can control them.

If In Doubt, Ask Doctor
The effect of camp life upon under-par children is, with few exceptions, remarkably good. One sees a little, weak fellow start out in the summer for camp and the very fact that everybody there is leading an active life helps him to come back brown and husky. Of course, when any doubt exists, it is important that the parents, the family physician and the camp director should all confer in order to make a decision as to whether any given child is likely to benefit from camp discipline.

"THE GORGON'S MASK"

by Van Wyck Mason

SYNOPSIS

As war clouds thicken over Tientsin and other scenes of international friction in China, Howard Nevins, ostensibly an American big game hunter, reaches Honolulu. Within the hour of his arrival, he receives a mysterious "phone" warning, a woman's voice urging that he return to the States at once. Annoyed but undaunted, Nevins attends a dinner tendered by wealthy Abner Polk. Prominent among the guests is Baron von Reutner, a reputed German industrialist. Alluring Phedre Renouire as hostess is the subject of considerable sotto voce discussion. Polk assured Hideyo Kanamura, prosperous Japanese merchant, that "there will be no war," but others present are jittery and Naval Lieut. Wilson Clark explodes, almost assaulting Kanamura. Bruce Kilgour, major of British Intelligence, joins the party, which continues gayly on the float until the corpse of a beautiful unknown girl comes in on the tide. Nevins carefully examines the suspected corpse delicti on the float where he clashes briefly with Kanamura. And, now, under his real name of North, the erstwhile Nevins is giving Lieut. Clark a drastic dressing down....

CHAPTER SIX

Captain North, for reasons of his own, leaned suddenly forward with so menacing a glare in his deep-set eyes that the other flinched.

"Don't lie any further!" he blazed. "Haven't you done enough harm? The Department knows and I know that both you and Major Cross have made great monkeys of yourselves over an adventuress called Nadia Stefan."

Up sprang Lieutenant Clark, his face livid above the white collar of his uniform and his eyes lit with a frantic glare.

"By Jupiter! You can't—you-I won't!"

North's manner was calm, frigid—and effective. Yes, the boy had it bad!

"Sit down, Lieutenant," he snapped. "So you do care for her—in spite of the fact that she is causing your disgrace. She must be pretty clever to take in two officers of the D. C. I."

Imperturbably he checked a frenzied expostulation on the part of the now heavily perspiring lieutenant. "We'll grant that you've not told this woman Department secrets nor have you been actively disloyal; but the point is that she's persuaded you to let this business here in Honolulu slide along until we're trembling on the brink of war."

Then the intelligence captain leaned forward. "Now listen to me, Clark, and don't lay your ears back!" he added when he saw the younger man's jaw creep forward and his powerful hands close.

"Don't you know you're about to be dismissed from the service?"

The thought was evidently a sobering one, for Clark relaxed abruptly and passed a shaking hand over his damp and sunburned forehead while he stared emptily out of the window. After a little Clark spoke in the colorless voice of despair:

"Oh, I've been an awful fool, Captain. But you don't know what Nadia's like." He held out broad pleading hands. "I knew what she was—and, honest, I fought with myself, but—" The speaker's heated features quivered, and an almost fanatical enthusiasm entered his voice. "She's exquisite—she just scrambles your emotions into such a mess that, without her help, you can't straighten them out again."

It was hard for Hugh North to restrain the pity this outburst had inspired in him; but, ... somewhere that Japanese squadron was steaming swiftly, inexorably, towards Honolulu.

"Look here," he said succinctly, "pull yourself together and tell me all that's known here about this Transpacific matter. It broke while I was down on some business in Panama, and I haven't had time to learn anything."

Lieutenant Clark raised a somber.

Up sprang Lieutenant Clark, his face livid, his eyes glaring at Nevins. "By Jupiter! You can't—you-I won't—" quivering face. "I—I guess I've been kind of crazy, Captain. But, believe me, I'll try to make up for it."

The cigarette between Clark's fingers trembled more than a little.

"Well, Lieutenant," said North, "I gather things are going from bad to worse here in Oahu?"

"They are, sir," burst out Clark, with an abrupt change of mood evoked by North's friendly manner.

"In fact they're going bad so rapidly, that unless you can do something, the war will be on inside of forty-eight hours."

"What do you mean, Lieutenant?" Clark flushed a little. "Somebody is deliberately stirring up that trouble in China."

"The Transpacific business?"

"Yes, sir," said Clark, losing some of his uneasiness and hitching eagerly forward on his chair. "The Japs seemed to have had old Marshal Wang Tso Kin pretty well licked when, late in April, suddenly he came back to life again. We were told that he'd bought two more irregular armies and was back on the war path."

North's narrow dark brow contracted a little.

"Late in April? Where did Wang suddenly find money to hire those new troops? You tried to find out, I suppose?"

Lieutenant Clark replied lamely that he had not. "Major Cross and I got orders to see if we could locate anyone here who might be backing Wang."

"Why here?"

"This is the American jumping-off place for Asia, you know."

"But you didn't," grimly supplemented North, and after stripping off his coat he absently loosened his necktie, for the night had become warm. "You botched the job. Suppose we start all over. Begin with the early stages of this business. I didn't hear much of it in the Panama jungles."

Lieutenant Clark flicked the ash from his half-smoked cigarette and meditatively fixed his eyes on the ceiling.

"Well, sir, the trouble all began, let's see—well, a month ago. Know China at all?"

Captain North smiled a little beneath his short military mustache. "A little, Lieutenant. I spent the better part of two years in and about Peking."

"Then you'll know where Talingho is?"

"On the Ichow River, isn't it? About two hundred miles north of Peking?"

"They call it Peiping, now, sir," corrected Clark apologetically.

"Peiping, then," North agreed solemnly. "I'm old-school, Lieutenant, but I know Talingho isn't far from the Chihli-Manchurian border."

"Yes, sir," Clark said nervously and his unhappy eyes again sought the ceiling, where a small green lizard was playing havoc with drowsy house flies. "You see, Captain, the Department first began to get suspicion when this mysterious Transpacific Company suddenly bought a played-out iron mine."

"Are they sure the mine is played out?"

LITTLE CHATS ON PUBLIC NOTICES

By J. E. Pollard, Journalism Professor, Ohio State University

Cleveland as Right

Any mention of the name of Grover Cleveland invariably recalls his famous declaration that public office is a public trust. The truth of his assertion is so plain it seems strange that it took so long to be recognized. And what Cleveland said can be related to cover another but related matter, namely, that public business is likewise a public trust.

In the Twentieth century the public business has reached enormous proportions. In one way or another it probably touches most activities. It involves tremendous sums of money. In its manifold forms vast amounts of property, equipment, supplies, facilities and services have been acquired. More than ever before this very growth has made a complete and regular accounting to the public imperative.

The laws of the various states make many provisions for the periodical publication of such reports for the full and proper information of the public that foots the bills. In many cases, as they should be, such reports are mandatory. This is good business and makes for good citizenship.

When individual citizens or newspapers, as taxpayers, insist upon official compliance with such laws.

Dinner Is Planned

Sons of Union Veterans and their families will have a coverdish birthday dinner at 6 p. m. Thursday in the hall. A large attendance is desired.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mlinarcik and son, John J., were Sunday dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Blender and daughter, Helen, at Franklin Square. Other callers at the home were Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Solmen and children of Detroit, Mich., and Mrs. Nick Sanlo of Salem.

Arthur Whipkey, stationed at the U. S. naval training station at Great Lakes, Ill., is visiting at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Whipkey, Euclid st., for the week. He will return to the station Sunday night.

C. N. Wiley of Woodstown, N. J., is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shinn on the Benton rd.

especially where they relate to financial reports, they do so as a matter of principle and of public service. As a public trust the public business today merits more than ever a full and regular accounting in published reports, especially in the newspaper as the law often provides.

INSIDE OR OUT?

MONKEYS want security, warmth, peanuts and bananas, companionship—even as you and I.

Monkeys get these things in the zoo—probably to a far greater degree than in their native trees. But they lose their FREEDOM to get them.

Now the great difference between a FREE man and a SLAVE has nothing to do with peanuts or security. The free man keeps his freedom by being able to PROTECT HIMSELF. The slave, or the monkey, gives up his freedom TO GET PROTECTION. Dictators, like zoo keepers, believe it is unnecessary for the INDIVIDUAL to make any decisions.

"The STATE will tell you what you are to do, what you are to believe," says the dictator. "And if you do not do and believe as you are told—NO PEANUTS!"

That doesn't sit very well with free men in a democracy. They say:

"WE, the people, will tell you, OUR PUBLIC SERVANTS, what to do and what to believe. Fail us and we'll throw you out of office!"

BUT THEN COMES THIS QUESTION: How are you, the people, to know right from wrong, fact from fancy? How can you watch everywhere at once?

How can you keep your eye on the businessman who runs the national "peanut stand" and still watch the state and local and national government? How can you POSSIBLY know what is going on all about you?

AND HERE IS DEMOCRACY'S ANSWER:

"The answer is easy. We will have free speech, freedom of thought and religion. We will let every man express his own views. We will give to NEWSPAPERS the job of keeping us informed. We will put these rights of ours to KNOW THE FACTS even beyond the reach of our government—beyond temptation.

"And we will KEEP for ourselves the power to get a new zoo keeper or a new mayor or a new senator if any true report comes to us that these or other public SERVANTS threaten to become our MASTERS. No dictatorship can exist in a nation that has a truly FREE press."

Over 300 leading newspaper publishers join together to bring you this weekly message about the function of the press in a free nation. Newspaper Publishers Committee, 420 Lexington Ave., New York.

Come on! Drive a Car with "Second Wind"!

YOU say a racehorse has "heart" when he can turn on the drive coming into the stretch and bring the crowd to its feet with an all-out finish.

Oked—come try a car that can turn on extra wallop like water from a tap—and see what you would say about Compound Carburetion!

For this stunning Buick straight-eight swings you along sweetly on only half-carburetion as long as you're taking it easy in everyday sort of travel.

Only one of its two thrift-size carburetors works then, because that's all that's needed.

But step down on the gas treadle—and things happen.

A second carburetor opens up. Air supply as well as gas supply is increased. Power rises instantly. You get your "stretch drive" any time you give the word.

But—this isn't only for thrill.

This engine's actually more efficient because it has this "second wind."

It gives you a car that has the life and lift you like—and still delivers (on owners' say-so) as much as 10% to 15% more miles per gallon than previous Buicks did.

So in Buick you get a car not only bigger, roomier, smarter and more comfortable, but one that is basically more able.

That would be important any time; it's all the more important now—at the low delivered prices your Buick dealer is asking.

†Available on Buick SPECIAL models at slight extra cost, standard on all other Series.

delivered at Flint, Mich. State tax, optional equipment and accessories—extra. Prices and specifications subject to change without notice.

Phillis Hurls Driscolls To 9-0 Win; Recreation Takes SWOC

HURLS ONE-HITTER, FANS 7; WRIGHT IS WILD IN 9-7 LOSS

Church League Deadlocked As Trinity's Lose To Christians

J. Rogers of the Carroll club, lead-off man in their game with Driscollwood last night, beat out a bunt and thereby qualified as the only Carroll to get on base in a game that saw Phillis, Driscolls' hurler, face only 15 batters, fan seven, and allow only one safe hit, to score a five-inning shut-out, 9 to 0.

Orrie Wright passed out 10 walks and seven hits as the SWOC bowed to the Recreation, 9-7. Early's triple in the sixth with the bases loaded erased the early lead held by the SWOC and gave the rambling Reds their winning runs.

The Trinity's broke even in two games last night and presented the Church League with a three-way deadlock for first. Winning one from the Presbys, 7-5, and then dropping one to the Christians, 4-1, the Trinity moved in with the Baptists and the YPCC in the percentage standing.

In an effort to end the tangle the Baptists and Trinity will play in the first church game tonight, the Young People playing the winner in a game Thursday night. In the second game tonight the Christians will play St. Paul's.

BOSS OF BROWNS - - - By Jack Sords

LUKE SEWELL, NEW MANAGER OF THE ST. LOUIS BROWNS, REPLACING FRED HANEY

LUKE WAS ONE OF THOSE RARE PLAYERS WHO REQUIRED NO MINOR LEAGUE SEASONING. HE JOINED THE CLEVELAND INDIANS DIRECT FROM THE UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA

HE ALSO SAW SERVICE WITH WASHINGTON, CHICAGO WHITE SOX AND BROOKLYN, RETURNING TO THE INDIANS IN 1939 AS A PLAYER-COACH

FELLER TO SHOOT FOR 13TH VICTORY

Dopesters Predict Thirty Or More Wins For Season

(By Associated Press) CLEVELAND, June 10.—Bob Feller goes to the hill today after the jinx victory, No. 13, thereby bringing to a head much pent-up speculation over how many games Cleveland's young fire-baller will win this season.

All the calculations show he should take 36 or more. Before consulting the stars and the record books the guessers rule out the possibility of Bob being inducted into the army, the date of call being too indefinite to figure in the figures.

Mathematically speaking, here are some arguments: 31 victories.—On June 19, 1940, Feller had won eight games. He ended with 27, meaning he added 19 in a period corresponding with the rest of this year. That would make the 1941 total 31.

Would Be Three Weeks Ahead 32 victories.—Last year the Iowa farm boy took his 13th decision on July 3. Thus a victory over Washington today would put him three weeks ahead of schedule, which would mean five extra triumphs. Adding five to his best year of 27 would bring 32.

36 victories.—Bob has won 12 games in approximately one-third of the season. Feller has been helped by the weather man and Manager Roger Peckinpaugh so far.

Good weather to date has piled up only four double-headers for the Indians, enhancing Bob's chances of pitching more often.

Seeking to get the most out of his ace, Peckinpaugh has pitched the young right-hander every fourth day. Continuation of such a program means Bob will start probably 25 more times.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, June 10.—(The Special News Service)—If you've been wondering why Bill Jurges has been missing from the Giants' lineup for the past few days, it's just for some rest. But just to make sure that old feeling won't return, Bill expects to get some of the same injections that put him back in the game last spring. Dark days are ahead for minor league ball clubs, one way or another. The Atlanta Crackers tried playing daylight ball just to see how things would turn out in case they have to give up the floodlights—and the crowds fell off so badly that President Earl Mann is wondering what ever became of the fans who used to watch afternoon games.

The whole world knows and loves to read
How Casey fanned that day.
Good gosh what fame he would have had
If he'd knocked that ball away.

Out of Season
Frank Leahy already has Notre Dame fans frightened by being unduly optimistic about his team's chances next fall. Frank says he isn't worried about the opposition until the Indiana game, which is second on the schedule, and if the Irish get by that one they may go undefeated until the Navy game in November. But some of the other reports lead reader John Burgoine of Cincinnati (and a red-hot Notre Dame fan) to ask whether the sports writers will predict a good season and then hope they're wrong or predict a bad season and hope they're right. Camp Haan at Riverside, Calif., boasts it has three gridiron sharpshooters with the anti-aircraft forces—Norm Duncan of U. C. L. A., Hal Van Every of Minnesota and Tony Mazziola of Notre Dame.

One-Minute Interview
Fred Perry: "I don't want to tear down the game that built me up, but everyone knows the cost of an amateur tennis tourney. It's $1,400. The top three players have a certain price, the next three another price, and so on. Why, it's like a laundry list." Which may explain why Don Budge, Frank Shields, Sidney Wood, etc. tackled the laundry business as a sideline.

TOPEKA, Kas.—Alexander, the ugly robin, has become a psychopathic case.
Alex was caught by a cat, got away in a near-naked condition. Dr. and Mrs. D. E. Whately administered first aid, kept him warm with a hot water bottle, and even dug him worms.
He was finally turned out. But other birds would have nothing to do with Alex. He wouldn't dig his own worms, kept running back home at meal time.
"We're trying to ignore him," say the Whatleys.

REDS ARE WINNING LIKE CHAMPS NOW; TAKE 8 OUT OF 10

End Batting Slump To Go Within a Half Game Of Third

BY JUDSON BAILEY

Associated Press Sports Writer

The Cincinnati Reds are beginning to win like champions, even if they don't always look like baseball's kingpins.

Taken game by game during the past couple of weeks the Reds have been the beneficiaries of more lucky victories than you could shake a bat at. But they all add up to a sudden surge that has brought the world champions eight triumphs in their past 10 games, lifting them within a half game of third place in the National League.

That is fast traveling which can't be brushed aside simply by saying they have been getting the breaks.

The Reds have been in a batting slump all season. For the first five innings yesterday Hugh Casey of the Brooklyn Dodgers held them hitless. Their first single in the sixth was Yast. Then in the last three innings they made nine blows, including a home run, four doubles and a triple, coming off with a 9-7 victory and making the Dodgers yield the circuit lead to the St. Louis Cardinals who trounced the New York Giants, 5-2.

Lonnie Frey Sets The Pace
Lonnie Frey, a one-time Dodger, was the big gun in the Reds' victory driving in four tallies with a homer in the eighth and a double in the ninth, but a two-base error by shortstop Peeewe Reese in the latter inning made Cincinnati's winning runs unearned. Credit for the victory went to Joe Beggs, although it was the pitching of young Elmer Riddle that captured everybody's fancy. He went on duty in the ninth, and, with the tying run on base, struck out two men in succession to end the game, after he had given a double and an intentional walk.

Move to Boston
The Reds roar into Boston today to meet the Braves. Johnny Vander Meer, who may be the wonder boy of the baseball world all over again, is down to continue the successful if not good work started on the Brooklyn Dodgers, and Mannie Salvo is the Boston pitcher.

One of the fine pitching performances of the day yesterday was a six-hitter by rookie Aldon Wilkie of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who shut out the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-0. The Chicago Cubs set off a 21-hit fireworks display at Boston to beat the Braves, 13-6, and present 42-year-old Charley Root the 197th victory of his career.

Yesterday was an open date for all American league clubs.

U. S. WAR PLANTS IN "SECOND GEAR"

But They're Getting Set To Go Into High Next Year

BY EDWIN STOUT
(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, June 10.—American war factories are still picking up speed in second gear—where England was in 1939. But they are getting set to go into high in 1942 with tremendous acceleration.

Engineers, executives, ordnance experts and army and navy officers who are putting the American factories in operation say that when they are going full blast they will surpass anything the world has ever seen.

On an air tour of defense plants with other returned war correspondents, I have gone through key factories in five states with permission of the war and navy departments.

Presidents, vice-presidents, chairmen and managers of the plants, which have war contracts totaling nearly three billion dollars, almost without exception have given me these answers to questions on their production problems:

1—There are no immediate critical shortages of men or materials.

2—The machine tool industry that makes the machines that make the planes, tanks and guns is keeping up to schedule.

3—"Washington"—the army, the navy, the Office of Production Management—gets the plants which they have to have in tools and materials almost with an Alladin touch.

4—The only bottleneck is time.

Thus, unlike British plants, American factories are free from constant worry over materials and manpower. But they still have much to do before war goods roll out in huge quantities.

On the average, it takes about a year to put together a war goods plant. Ordinarily, peace factories cannot be converted economically to mass war production.

For example, none of the standard machines with which the American car and foundry company builds freight cars could be used in their new tank factory. There was no standard equipment in the Ford plant that could handle the crankshafts and cylinders and other parts of the Pratt and Whitney engine Ford is to build at the rate of 40 a day in a new factory.

It was quicker to build new buildings for the plants than to find old buildings, the manufacturers said.

Theatre Attractions

A story based on the famous music camp at Interlochen, Mich., where young musicians study under the masters, is told in "There's Magic in Music." The showing at the State theater Thursday and Friday will be sponsored by the Salem Quota club. Funds from the sale of tickets by the club members will be used for welfare work.

Thoroughly good screen entertainment, the picture has received the endorsement of national music organizations, of "Parents" magazine and other publications interested in the advancement of good motion pictures.

Brian Aherne plays a dual role in the comedy-romance, "The Man Who Lost Himself," featured at the State theater Wednesday only, following the last showing tonight of "Billy the Kid," starring Robert Taylor, Ian Hunter and Brian Donlevy.

Kay Francis, Henry Stephenson, S. Z. Sakall, Nils Asther, Sig Ruman, Dorothy Tree and Janet Beecher have supporting roles in the story of an eccentric who commits suicide after passing his double off on his family. The double's protestations that he is not the dissipated estranged husband of Miss Francis almost lands him in an insane asylum until the wife realizes the identification mistake.

At the Grand theater Wednesday only are: "The Invisible Ghost," with Bela Lugosi, Polly Ann Young, John McGuire and Clarence Muse; and "Mail Train," with Gordon Harker, Alastair Sims, Phyllis Calvert and Edward Chapman.

U. S. AWAITS MORE DATA ON SINKING

American Merchantman Said to Have Been Torpedoed by U-Boat

gram was sent at midnight, Eastern Standard time.

Among the 11 rescued are three officers.

We are continuing to Recife (Pernambuco), Brazil, where we expect to arrive tomorrow night.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The United States government waited with grave concern today for further information on the sinking of the American merchantman Robin Moor in the south Atlantic—reported by a German U-boat.

The concern was heightened by the fact that 35 of the 46 persons aboard the ship were missing. This includes 27 members of the crew and all eight passengers—among them three women and one child.

The only official information received by the state department thus far came from Ambassador Jefferson Caffrey at Rio de Janeiro. He reported last night that the 5,000 ton vessel "was sunk" in the south Atlantic on May 21, but did not state the cause of the sinking.

Torpedoed By Sub
Earlier, however, the navy department had been given messages, intercepted by commercial communications, which stated that the Robin Moor had been "torpedoed by a German submarine."

Although authorities emphasized that they were still without official confirmation on the torpedoing, it was noted that the name of the rescue ship tallied with that given in Caffrey's subsequent report.

The maritime commission said its information was that the Robin Moor had a general cargo of automobiles, steel and other materials, but no munitions. The ship cleared New York May 6 bound for Cape Town, South Africa.

The New York offices of the Robin line were without word of the vessel's fate.

The information the state department received from Ambassador Caffrey was as follows:

The Brazilian steamship Osorio radioed port authorities at Fortaleza that she had picked up 11 members of the Robin Moor's crew adrift in a lifeboat at 9 p. m. Sunday at latitude 00.46 north and longitude 37.37 west.

Sunk on May 21
The ship "was sunk" on May 21 while navigating in latitude 6.15 north and longitude 25.30 west. Despite all efforts, the Osorio had been unable to find any trace of three other lifeboats which carried the missing passengers and crew members.

This message would indicate that the 11 rescued sailors had been adrift in an open boat under the equatorial sun for almost three weeks. The condition of the men was not reported, but belief was expressed here that they would probably be too weak to be able to give any detailed account of the Robin Moor's end for some time.

(The position given for the ship's sinking is about 600 miles south of the Cape Verde islands, midway between Brazil and West Africa. However, the lifeboat picked up by the Osorio was found almost 800 miles to the southwest of that point.)

The area indicated, it was said here, would be a likely hunting ground for Nazi U-boats preying on British shipping from South America, or northbound from the Cape of Good Hope. The Osorio left Norfolk, Va., May 23 for Rio de Janeiro, where she is scheduled to make port within a week.

FIVE INDICTMENTS RETURNED BY JURY

LISBON, June 10.—The Columbiana county grand jury reported at 11:45 a. m. today after considering 15 cases. The jury heard 32 witnesses, returned five true bills, two of them secret, ignored seven cases, continued one for further investigation, and referred one to a justice of the peace court.

James White, colored, East Liverpool, was indicted for shooting with intent to kill in one of the three true bills made public. Howard L. Garey, of Columbiana was indicted for issuing a fraudulent check while Denzil Williams was charged with abandoning a pregnant woman.

BRITISH WAR HEAD ANSWERS CRITICS

Churchill Declines "Full Statement": Would Aid Enemy

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, June 10.—Prime Minister Churchill, answering prolonged criticism of his government, told commons today it was "calculated to challenge the security of the administration."

The prime minister declined several requests for a detailed statement on the war in the eastern Mediterranean.

"No full statement can possibly be given," he said, "without revealing valuable information to the enemy."

"I think it would be a mistake if the house got in the habit of calling for explanations on the varying episodes of this dangerous and widespread struggle and asking for an account to be given of why any action was lost or any part of the front was beaten in."

He spoke after sharp demands were voiced by members of commons, in a belligerent mood over British reverses in the Mediterranean, for a more vigorous war strategy, a new and stronger plan of air warfare and for a drastic shakeup in Britain's leadership.

Berates War Leaders
Principal among the government's critics was Leslie Hore-Belisha, former war secretary, who berated Britain's war leaders chiefly for failure in the air.

He charged that 100 more fighter planes might have turned the tide in Greece and protested vehemently over what he declared was the RAF command's unimaginative insistence that an air-borne invasion could not drive the British from Crete.

The former war secretary questioned Churchill's optimism over British supplies and wound up with the solemn warning that only "greater vigor and imagination" will bring Britain victory.

A proposal that dominion leaders share responsibility for Britain's war effort in a compact cabinet was rejected by the prime minister with a flat "no."

The general tenor of criticism was that the RAF, heroes of the Battle of Britain last fall, had failed the army and navy in the Crete disaster and Hore-Belisha urged a separate army air force.

Intervention Would Mean Dictatorship, Says Mussolini

"American intervention will not give Britain victory but will prolong the war. It will not limit the scope of war but will extend it beyond the oceans. It will transform the United States regime into a totalitarian regime compared with which the forerunner European regime—Fascist and Nazi—will find themselves far surpassed and perfected."

"When it is desired to recall dictator in the pure classic meaning of the term, Sulla is cited. A right, Sulla appears a modest amateur in comparison with Delano Roosevelt."

The Fascist chieftain accused Turkey of helping Greece in her war with Italy, but declared Italy was maintaining a policy of "comprehension" toward Ankara.

Japan's attitude, he said, "is in perfect line with the tri-partite pact" and she would be loyal to the Axis in the event of "American aggression."
